Clean Water NJ

If you use too much fertilizer on your lawn, you might as well fertilize the stream. Fertilizers help plants grow by adding nutrients to the soil. Pesticides (including herbicides) are toxic substances used to kill insects, animals or plants. If fertilizers or pesticides are improperly applied, they wash off your lawn or garden into storm drains and directly to our lakes, rivers, and the ocean. These chemicals can contaminate drinking water, as well as kill fish, wildlife and plants. Too much fertilizer washing into a lake can cause algae to bloom in lakes, which will affect swimming, fishing and boating.

Why should you care about clean water? Stormwater pollution is one of the greatest threats to New Jersey's clean water supply. Clean water provides access to safe drinking water, places for recreation, commercial opportunities, healthy wildlife habitats, and adds beauty to our landscape.

Did you know more than 60 percent of water pollution comes from things like motor oil, fertilizers, pet waste and detergents? Rain washes pollutants into storm drains which flow directly into our streams, lakes, rivers and the ocean. By sharing the responsibility and making small, easy changes in our daily lives, we can keep common pollutants out of stormwater. You can help!

So what can you do? Test your soil at your County's Rutgers Cooperative Research and Extension office, or buy a self-test kit. Use natural, slow-release nitrogen, or low phosphorus fertilizers. Look into natural alternatives to fertilizers and pesticides, such as integrated pest management (IPM). If you need to use fertilizers or pesticides, follow the instructions on the label on how to correctly apply. Do not apply fertilizers or pesticides before it rains. This will not allow the fertilizers or pesticides to penetrate through the soil. Use drought-resistant native plants in gardens; they require less fertilizer and less water. Use a mulching mower instead of bagging grass clippings.

Meet Your Neighbor: Sue McHugh Lally

By Mary Coffey

Sue McHugh Lally is petite and passionate. She grew up in Rumson, then attended the University of Massachusetts and majored in Science and Technology, or more specifically, in trees. “Some people are fascinated by birds; with me, it was always trees. I just love trees,” relates Ms. Lally.

Before college, she saw a film on how paper was made and got very interested in trees as a source of paper. When it came time for college, she wanted to go to the University of Massachusetts. Her high school guidance counselor advised her to put something unique on her application to make her stand out. So she said she wanted to major in “Wood Science & Technology.” It worked and she was accepted. While attending college, her advisor said that if she succeeded in getting a degree in Wood Science, she’d be guaranteed a job upon graduation. That sounded impressive. She laughs. “What they didn’t tell you, was that the job would be as a foreman at a lumber mill in Texarkana, Texas!”

It was 1983, when women were not foremen at lumber mills. But that was the job so she said, “Ok...I’m going...” Her sister helped her load her ‘worldly belongings’, essentially a bed and a stereo, into a U-Haul and drove her cross-country to Texas, at the Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana border. She settled into the “Haystack Apartments” in Bowie County. “Bowie County was a dry county, but you could drive across the street (State Line Avenue) into Arkansas and it was lined with liquor stores and bars. If you did go into one of the bars, you had to pay to be a member, but it was only $1, and you were a member for life.”

At work, things were awkward at first. She worked 10-12 hour days among mostly male mill workers. She was a foreman-trainee female, wearing a white hat (management). Some of the guys were still fighting the Civil War. “When they said ‘Yankee, go home’ they meant you.” The machines were dangerous; you had to wear long sleeves and steel-toed shoes. It was cold in winter and hot in the summer. But she persisted in being helpful and courteous and eventually won them over.

About a year later the bottom fell out of the lumber industry and she was laid off. She contacted her advisor from UMass, and he suggested a job as a salesperson in the paper industry. She knew nothing about sales. When he told her that she would receive a salary and commissions she agreed to give it a try. She took a job with Borden Chemical (which in addition to cheese and milk makes Elmer’s Glue, from a byproduct of milk called “casein”) where she sold formaldehyde-based resins. Over 5% of the US economy depends on formaldehyde which is in products like couches, carpets, cars, flooring and wood products. Although told that the job was in New England, when interviewing, the interviewer revealed that the only job was in Sheboygan, Wisconsin. So off she went.

She lived in Menomonee Falls, outside of Milwaukee, and spent 10 years in Sheboygan selling chemicals to make paper and board products.

She moved back to New Jersey in 1993, and worked as a quality control inspector in a plastics factory making Kool-Aid cups and Burger King trays but it lasted only six months or so. Then she was hired by a company which made micro-crystalline cellulose (refined wood pulp), an “excipient” used in pharmaceutical tablets, like Tylenol, to “hold things together.”

When asked how she met her husband Mike, she says, “Boy, did I kiss a lot of frogs before he came along. In 2000, I was working for a company called Penwest and I had Boston as my territory for a short period. Mike, lived in Boston at the time, and was substituting for a purchasing agent, and...we met. Later, he was transferred to Landsdale, PA. I was living in W. Orange, two hours from Lansdale, so we did this commuting relationship for the next two years.”

When they decided to get married in 2003, they told their realtor that they wanted to live in Bucks or Hunterdon counties since Mike had enjoyed vacations in the area. He wanted a knotty pine log cabin in the woods; she wanted a contemporary. “We ended up with a contemporary in the woods,” says Sue.

Pipeline Update

Permit applications by the PennEast Pipeline company have been rejected by two government agencies. On April 25, the Federal Army Corps of Engineers notified PennEast that its application was deemed incomplete because the company has failed to conduct surveys on a majority of the path of the pipeline.

A day later the NJ Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) notified PennEast of essentially the same thing regarding their state application. In New Jersey alone, PennEast has only surveyed 35 percent of the proposed route.

DEP further stated that PennEast does not have the authority to perform surveys along the route since they neither own nor have permission to access the land along the proposed path. PennEast was given 30 days (from April 26, 2017) to correct its application to DEP, but if the information is not provided within 60 days, the DEP may administratively close the application.

Conserving Water: Every Drop Counts

Did you know that the average person uses between 80 and 100 gallons of water each day? It may not sound like much, but that's 36,500 gallons a year for just one person! With close to nine million people living in New Jersey, conserving water is not only good for the environment, but it helps protect our drinking water resources. Even small changes can make a big difference.

For example, reducing your average time in the shower to five minutes can save you close to 10 gallons a day, and turning off the water while brushing your teeth could save another 2.5 gallons. These two changes alone could help save more than 4,500 gallons a year. Now, imagine the impact if all 9 million New Jerseyans made these changes!

Why is this important? As of this May, Hunterdon is one of only two New Jersey counties remaining under a drought warning announced in October 2016. And in the summer months, outdoor water use can more than double.

In addition to the suggestions above, you can do your part to help avoid a drought emergency by following these simple tips provided by the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection: Don't let faucets run when washing the dishes, run washing machines and dishwashers only when they are full, install water-saving showerheads and faucet aerators in the bathroom and kitchen, fix any leaking faucets, don't wash your car at home, and turn off automatic lawn and garden sprinkler systems. For more information on water conservation visit www.nj.gov/dep/drought.

Township Takes Next Steps in Acquiring Reading School House (aka the Wescott House)

Township representatives Alan Johnson and Susan Lockwood met with representatives of Hunterdon County to find out what had to be done in order for the Township to acquire the Reading School House.

Also known as the Wescott House, the Reading School was once a one-room school house acquired several years ago by the County as part of the Wescott Preserve. It is on the County's Green Acres Inventory of Open Space. Together with the County, Township representatives determined that there is a process in the Green Acres rules for administratively transferring a preserved property from one government entity to another. That process includes posting signs about the process on the property and public hearings.

The Township Committee initiated the process by passing a resolution of intent to acquire the property, and the County Freeholders followed suit. The Township's intention is to obtain the school house (for a fee of $1) and to have it restored as an historic facility.

There is already a group of interested residents ready to work on restoration once the property is transferred. If you would like to volunteer, please contact Alan Johnson or Susan Lockwood.

Township Hiking Trails

Hooray! If you want to get out and explore the miracle of Spring on foot there are a number of marvelous trails in Delaware Township. Walk along the Wickecheoke Creek on any or all of three loop trails in the Wickecheoke Creek Preserve beginning at Prallsville Mills and continuing North along the creek. Along the way you can walk through fields, woods, hemlock groves and along cliffs.

Take in some history on Loop 2 and explore the Green Sergeant's Covered Bridge. Trail maps are available in the Township Municipal Building and online at njconservation.org.

Situated side by side, the Wescott Preserve and the Zega Aquetong Preserve offer an interesting variety of trails that can be accessed from either Raven Rock-Rosemont Road or Strimples Mill Road. Be sure to check out the 1861 one-room, Reading schoolhouse at the Raven Rock entrance to the Zega Aquetong Preserve. More information is available at the following websites: hunterdonlandtrust.org, drgreenway.org and co.hunterdon.nj.us/depts/parks/ParkAreas.

The White Oak Trail, opened in 2010 and maintained by the Township Environmental Commission and volunteers, begins on the North bound side of Route 29, just before the entrance to Bull's Island. It meanders up a slight incline past an old quarry site to Quarry Road. Walk a short distance left on Quarry Road to the continuation of the trail on your right. The trail is about a mile in length. Visit www.dandrcanal.com/pdf/DelawareTownship_TrailSign_4-10.pdf for a trail map and list of things to look for.

Happy Hiking! If you are interested in being a trail volunteer, call Kathy Klink at 609-397-3240, x208.

Township Budget

The Delaware Township Committee completed its review and preparation of the 2017 budget in April, following extensive evaluation of all line items and capital needs.

The budget is comprised of two parts: general government expenses and capital expenses. General government expenses cover the day to day operation of the Township and must be funded in the year they are needed. Capital expenses are the larger ticket items that may require more than one year for funding, and possibly long-term financing.

The Township undertook a complete asset inventory in anticipation of developing a long range capital plan. For example, a new fire truck, and larger Road Department equipment like dump trucks and loaders are included in the capital budget allowing the Township to reserve money over several years before funding the purchase.

The Township's total budget for 2017 is $4,405,893.65. This is an increase of 1.4 cents per $100 of assessed value. As in past years, the majority of the Township's budgeted expenses are allocated to the Police (approximately $750,000) and Road Departments (approximately $600,000), respectively. The next largest budget item is insurance (approximately $595,000). The Township also contributes to shared salaries and services like the Shared Municipal Court (approximately $70,000), and volunteer fire ($85,000) and rescue squad services ($21,000).

Some of the smallest budget items include a $500 budget for the Shade Tree Commission and $1,255 for the Environmental Commission. In addition, this year, the Township anticipates including $297,000 in the capital fund.

The complete Township budget can be viewed on the Township website.

Grass Clippings

Mowing season is here. Please remember that a Township ordinance prohibits mowing or blowing grass clippings onto roads. They clog ditches, culverts and drains causing serious flooding issues. Thank you.

Holcombe House Nearing Auction

Recently, the Delaware Township Committee received copies of "frequently asked questions" in anticipation of the auction of the historic Holcombe House.

The Township has been working with the State Green Acres program for many years to have the historic house auctioned back to public ownership so that it receives maintenance, attention, and protection. The house will be auctioned with a historic easement, and will include approximately 7 acres, and outbuildings. The Auction may take place sometime in June with at least one open house before then. If you are interested in the auction, please go to www.govdeals.com/org for more information.

All information about the sale including the easement, the survey, and a Q&A section will be posted on the above website. Any questions or concerns must be directed to the State, as they are solely responsible for all representation.

Community Day Survey

The Delaware Township Recreation Commission is conducting a survey about the future of Community Day. Tell us what you like about the event, or, suggest improvements. Survey questions include whether to continue holding it at Dilt's Park or elsewhere in the town, the types of activities to hold during the day, and the best day to hold Community Day.

Please take a moment to complete the survey. You can find a link on the Township's web page (under Recreation and Events) or visit the survey page directly: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/7F9SDDZ>
