Mayor’s Message: James Waltman

2021 was a difficult year for our Township but was a reminder that our fellow residents are resilient, empathetic, and caring; and our township employees are some of the finest any municipality could ask for.

In September we witnessed the wrath of Mother Nature when tropical storm Ida dropped more than 11 inches of water into our creeks causing tremendous damage to our infrastructure and resident homes. The tireless work of our DPW, our Office of Emergency Management, and excellent assistance from NJ DEP has allowed us to quickly rebuild a majority of that infrastructure and obtain assistance for our residents in need. We still have work to do but I am pleased with our progress thus far.

Last spring we believed we were nearing the end of the pandemic. Instead we were reminded that it was here to stay, requiring us to live with it for the foreseeable future. We have made renovations to our township building with your health and safety in mind. Please feel confident to come and conduct any business you may need safely in the years ahead.

One positive development last year was your approval of our open space municipal question. With your overwhelming “Yes” we have begun the process of rehabilitating Sarah Dilts Park and other open space areas by embarking on our search for a formal park planner. I am confident with their guidance we can balance the needs at the park while continuing to add to our open space inventory as those opportunities arise.

Finally I want all residents to know that as your Mayor I am here for you, the residents. If you have a need, a question or concern please feel free to reach out to me personally. I promise I will do my very best to answer or assist you in any and every way possible. I have high hopes for a fantastic 2022 here in our beautiful Township and look forward to seeing you out and about during our year ahead.

Meet Your Neighbor: John C. Goodwin

by Sally Gullette

Until recently John Goodwin might have been known to area folks as the walker in the orange vest. Now, he has attained another identity - that as the author of Skunktown Trail in New Jersey - Remembering Yesterday, a book with lots of photos and information about the history of Sergeantsville* and surrounding areas.

John, originally from Wilmington, Delaware, came to know the Sergeantsville area when he met and eventually married Eileen Burget. She grew up in Sergeantsville and has roots in the Township that go way back. John settled with Eileen in Sergeantsville in 1974. She is the daughter of Henry and Mary Burget and it was her father Henry who in 1941 opened the doors to what is now the Sergeantsville Grain and Feed.

One evening while listening to his wife and her cousin Alan Brown reminisce over old photos and other memorabilia, John realized there was important history in what they knew and that it would be lost if not recorded. And with that, the idea for a book was born.

John's dedication to walking, two or more hours daily and always wearing an orange vest, stood him in good stead while gathering information for the book. He wanted it to be a history as residents remembered it, using whatever photos and other memorabilia they had. To obtain this information he knocked on many doors, not knowing most of the people therein. While few knew his name many recognized him as the walker in the orange vest and invited him in.

Basketball brought John to New Jersey. He went to Rider College on a basketball scholarship and is listed in Rider's basketball Hall of Fame. He went on to coach at both Rider College and Wagner College in Staten Island.

This was followed by two years in the US Army with a 13-month tour in Vietnam. Upon returning home, John completed a Master's Degree in Education at Southern Illinois University. His career as a salesman, first with the natural gas industry and then with petrochemical-nuclear-fluid power, took him on extensive travels around Canada, the United States, and Mexico.

John likes to write and in addition to this current book has written about sales, fishing, Vietnam, and his experience as a warden in a maximum security prison.

His book provides a fun and interesting tour of the area in and around Sergeantsville and if you have an opportunity to read the book you are sure to discover some surprises as well.

It took John five months to gather information and put the book together and the journey took him down to Stockton, out to Devil's Tea Table, over to Locktown, and up to Ringoes. And if you see a tall man walking about the area in an orange vest, honk and wave.

 For those who don't know, up until 1827 when a post office was established in the town, Sergeantsville was known as Skunktown (origin unknown).*

Original Recipe

Prepare your custard. Take eight or ten pleasant apples, pare them and dig out the core, but leave them whole, set them in a pudding dish, pour your custard over them, and bake them about 20 or 30 minutes.

2 cups Milk
3 Eggs
1/2 cup Brown Sugar

2. Grease a deep casserole dish (round or rectangular – 9 x 9-inch square or a 9-inch-deep pie plate, or a 9-inch Bundt pan)
3. Peel and core apples and leave whole so they fit snugly in the baking dish.
4. Make the custard by beating the milk, eggs, brown sugar, and cinnamon together well.

Be Prepared: Plastic Bag Ban Starts May 4

On May 4, 2022, New Jersey's ban on single-use plastic carryout bags goes into effect. The law was enacted to help protect the environment by reducing plastic waste, which pollutes our waterways and releases toxic chemicals into the environment.

The new law prohibits stores from providing or selling single-use plastic bags. This ban applies to most retail establishments including grocery stores, convenience stores, liquor stores, pharmacies, delis, restaurants, vending trucks, movie theaters and others.

Large grocery stores (2,500 sq ft or more in size) are also banned from providing single-use paper bags. These stores may only provide or sell reusable carryout bags that are made of washable fabric, have stitched handles, and are designed and manufactured for multiple re-uses.

If you usually rely on single-use bags when you go to the grocery store, start getting in the habit of bringing your own bags when you shop. While many grocery stores sell reusable bags, businesses are not required to provide them. There are no restrictions on the type of bag you can bring with you to go shopping.

Some plastic bags will continue to be allowed under the new law. Examples include bags used for the following: uncooked meat, fish, or poultry; loose items such as fruits, vegetables, nuts, coffee, baked goods, candy, greeting cards, flowers, or small hardware items; live fish or insects sold in a pet store; and food sliced or prepared to order.

Also excluded from the ban are laundry, dry cleaning, and garment bags; bags provided by a pharmacy for prescription drugs; and bags for newspapers. Furthermore, packages of trash bags and lawn bags are not impacted by the ban and are still eligible to be sold in stores.

In addition to the ban of plastic carryout bags, the new law prohibits the sale and use of polystyrene foam food products. This includes food containers, plates, hot or cold beverage cups, meat or vegetable trays, cutlery or egg cartons.
